

CONTRIBUTORS

KAZUNORI KUMAGAI is Professor of educational sociology in the Department of Education at Soka University, in Japan. Among his many books are Soka Kyoikugaku Nyumon [An Introduction to Education for Value-Creation] (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1994), Makiguchi Tsunesaburo (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1978), Kyoikushakaigaku [Educational Sociology] (Soka University Press, 1978), Gakuseikaikaku no Shakaigaku [Sociology of Educational Reform] (Toshindo, 1984), Gendai Kyoiku Seido Ron [Modern Educational Institutions] (Gakubunsha, 1996), Gendaino Kyoiku Shakaigaku [Contemporary Educational Sociology] (Toshindo, 2000).

KOICHI MIYATA is Professor of philosophy in the Department of Humanities at Soka University, Japan, and Senior Researcher at The Institute of Oriental Philosophy. Among his many books and articles are Makiguchi Tsunesaburo no Shukyo Undo [The Religious Movement of Tsunesaburo Makiguchi] (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1993), Makiguchi Tsunesaburo no Sekai Vision: Jinsei Chirigaku no Message [The World View of Tsunesaburo Makiguchi: Messages from Human Geography] (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1995), Makiguchi Tsunesaburo Wa Kant Wo Koetaka [Did Tsunesaburo Makiguchi Go Beyond Kant?] (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1997), "Tsunesaburo Makiguchi's View of Religion: A Modern Approach to Nichiren Buddhism" in The Journal of Oriental Studies 5 (1995), "The Lotus Sutra and Tsunesaburo Makiguchi and Josei Toda" in The Journal of Oriental Studies 10 (2000).

HIROO SATO is Associate Professor of history of Japanese thought in the Graduate School of Arts and Letters at Tohoku University. Among his many books are Nihon Chuse No Kokka to Shukyo [State and Religion in the Medieval Period of Japan] (Yoshikawakobunkan, 1987), Kamakura Bukkyo [Buddhism in the Kamakura Era] (Daisan Bunmeisha, 1994), Kami, Hotoke, Oken no Chusei [The Medieval Period of Deity, Buddha, and Sovereignty] (Hozokan, 1998), Amaterasu No Henbo [Changes in Amaterasu] (Hozokan, 2000). His published papers include "Nichiren's View of Nation and Religion" in Japanese Journal of Religious Studies (Nanzan Institute for Religion and Culture, 1999).

Dilma de Melo Silva is Professor of Brazilian Culture Studies in the Communications and Arts School at São Paulo University. She is a research fellow for the National Council for Scientific and Technological Development (CNPq) and for the São Paulo State Foundation for the Support of Research (FAPESP). Among her books are Brazil: Sua Gente e a sua Cultura [Brazil: Its People and Its Culture] (Ed. Ccint/ECA/University of São Paulo Press, 1999) and Por entre as Dórcades Encantadas: estudo sobre os Bijagó da Guiné Bissau [Between the Enchanted Dórcades: Study on Bijagó of Guine Bissau] (Ed. Terceira Margem, 2000).